

Ashland College!

FALL TERM OPENS
Sept. 10, 1901

Location

Ashland College is located at Ashland, Ohio. Our location is unsurpassed for beauty. No more healthful location could be found nor could a site more admirably adapted for college purposes be selected.

Buildings and Grounds

The college building is a large and elegant structure built of cut stone and brick. It has eight large recitation rooms, a beautifully furnished chapel, society halls, reading room, offices, etc. A few hundred feet west of the College, in the midst of the campus, stands the large and commodious dormitory. The rooms at the Hall are neatly and comfortably furnished.

The campus contains eighteen acres. It is well shaded and a number of fine flower beds have been made to add to its attractiveness. There is an athletic field for out door sports.

The Collegiate Courses

The regular college courses offered are equal to similar courses of the best colleges as an examination of the Curricula will show. Our Classical and Scientific courses are especially strong. Those who do not wish to take the Latin and Greek of these courses may take the Philosophical course. We also offer a Literary course one year shorter than the regular courses. In this course English is emphasized while History, Political and Social Sciences receive considerable attention.

The Theological Courses

The Classical Divinity is a regular collegiate course. It will afford an excellent preparation for the work of the Christian ministry. The English Divinity course is shorter and will give the student who cannot spend the time required for the regular course an opportunity to make the best possible preparation for his work. In these courses Bible study holds the prominent place.

The Normal Course

Our Normal course is thorough, practical, and up-to-date. It is especially adapted to the needs of teachers and those preparing to teach. It is built to educate and to train educators.

The first year's work consists of common school branches and fits for the teacher's examination.

The second and third year's work embrace English, History, Mathematics, and Science. Two year's language work elective. Psychology, Pedagogy, History and Science of Education are the distinguishing features of this course.

The Preparatory Course

Our Preparatory Course fully prepares for college. Those who complete it can enter the best colleges without examination. The work is systematically arranged and is practical in the highest degree.

Special Courses

Thorough instruction is given in Vocal and Instrumental Music, Business, Pen Art, Shorthand and Typewriting.

Free

All students of the College may enter the Rudimentary class in Penmanship free of cost.

The Faculty

The Faculty of Ashland is strong. The professors are graduates of the foremost Colleges and Universities, and are really specialists in their departments. Besides, they are experienced and successful instructors. Personal interest is shown each student in his class work. We lay especial claims upon the strength of our class work.

Expenses

It will cost you less to come to Ashland and pursue a course of study than anywhere else we know of where equal advantages are offered. Our rates of tuition are low. Well furnished rooms can be had and good boarding secured at reasonable rates.
